Semp, a two-year-old bay colt by Sem pronius -Varnish, in the stable of Col. Millen Young at Lexington, is known to the stable men as "Colin II." This is because of the enargement of his right hock. If it has ever burt him in any way he has never shown any signs of it. His action is perfect and he has plenty of speed. "I do not know how he got that big hock," said Col. Young the other I noticed it first when he was about a month old. It was my impression then that be might have been kicked or trampled on. As soon as he was broken last fall we put him brough several severe tests to see if the enargement would hurt him in his running, but here was never any apparent discomfort We ran him over the track when it was dry, wet, muddy and heavy and we soon oncluded that it was worth while to go on with him. Of course I wouldn't mind if he was like Colin in other respects. If he could have an unbeaten record of twelve such races as Mr. Keene's colt won last year I wouldn't care if he had two enlarged hocks.

He had fairly good control and gave only two bases on balls.

When Newton relieved Lake he was severely joited by having one of the bush leaguers hit his first ball for three bases. Newton fanned the next man and the inning passed without any scoring. In the eighth Atlanta made two runs on a base on balls, a three base hit and an out, and in the ninth Moran, the local right fielder, slammed one over Keeler's head for a home run. Moran also made a single and a triple off Newton. New York did not get a hit in the first three Jake Stahl was the first man up. He was hit by a pitched ball, a wild pitch sent him around to third and he scored on Ball's triple to left. Chase grounded out and Ball was caught at the plate on Hemphil's grounder to short, but Hemphil stole second and came home on Cyproy's three base hit. Conroy continued on his way home when the short-stop in relaying the ball home threw wild. In the eighth the New Yorks opened fire again, this time gathering five runs. There was one out when Keeler beat out a bunt. Stahl sent him to third with a clean two base hit. Ball scored them both and scored himself when Fox missed a throw from short, and Chase landed on third, from where he scored on Hemphill's double. Hemphill came across the plate on Conroy's long single. Conroy wanted a rest and Griffith ran for him, stealing second base and going to third on an out. M'GRAW'S HAND INJURED.

Accident to Manager Ends the Game Retween Colts and Regulars.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 13.-In a free hitting ten inning contest under a broiling sun this morning, at Marlin, the youngsters and regulars of the New York Nationals played a tie game, an accident to Manager McGraw ending the practice with the score of 6 to 6.

A line hit through the box by Hannifan struck the manager, who was pitching for the regulars, on the right hand. McGraw suffered intense pain, and after the hand had been roughly bandaged he returned to the hotel and had a doctor examine it. bones were fractured, but the index finger was split open near the second joint and the niddle finger badly crushed. The accident will keep the little manager out of the game for two weeks or so, but he will keep the others going at too speed, he says.

The score had been tied several times, with McGraw wirling against McGinnity, Taylor and Mathewson. At first the pitchers simply tossed them up, it being McGiraw's idea to give his outfielders a good workout and also to polish up the baserunning of the team.

also to polish up the baserunning of the team.

The colts tied the score twice and took the lead in the eighth inning. In the ninth James scored for the regulars. The tenth inning opened with a double by Herzog, and the ball Hannifan hit would probably have scored him, but the game was over when McGraw was injured. Features of the game were home runs by McGinnity and James and extra base hits by O'Brien and Evans.

Devore showed up well in right field, making a couple of circus catches and throwing Cy Seymour out at first base on a hit.

The New York squad arrived here to-night at 11 o'clock, the regulars stopping here while the colts, in command of Strang, caught an electric car and journeyed on to Dallas, thirty-five miles east of here. The five regular pitchers are here and the three youngsters at Dallas. To-day's score:

Brings Good News of New Yorks.

John Murphy, the Polo Grounds groundkeeper, who has been with the New York Nationals in Texas, returned from the Lone Star Stare yesterday. He brought chestful news of the abilities of McGraw's youngsters. Snodgrass, the young college catcher, is built like Johnny Kling, he said, and wields built like Johnny Kling, he said, and wields the stick in an encouraging way. (randal, the recruit outfielder, the Seymour type of player, and De Vore, another outfielder, is considered faster than George Browne by Manager McGraw. James, the big Washington and Jefferson catcher, is progressing favorably and it is believed will become a good backstop for Mathewson. McGraw has taken hold of Larry Doyle in earnest and Doyle is showing more ability and ambition than he did with the New Yorks last season. McGraw says he could win the Eastern League pennan, with his youngsters and he is going to hold on to as many of them as is practicable.

lub of America, said yesterday that the board of governors of the A. C. A. had been contemplating withdrawing the club from membership in the New York State Automobile Association for more than a year and that consequently the determination to do so was by no means hurriedly made. When it was finally resolved to resign from the State association and thereby give up affliation with the American Automobile Association the members of the board of governors voted unanimously in favor of withdrawing, this action having been taken at the last regular meeting of the board.

The resignation from the State association takes effect on April 1, as the dues of the club are paid up to that date. Mr. Hoyt said that the club had not made any anno ment of its intention to resign, as the board of governors was of the opinion that such an announcement would be discourteous to the officers of the State association, and i was thought that President Quayle of the State association would rather make the announcement himself. There is an impression among automobilists in this city that the poard of governors of the Automobile Club of America has for some time been of the opinion that the officers of the State association have assumed a rather arbitrary attitude regarding legislative matters and have shown a disposition to ignore the wishes of he country's oldest and greatest club.

While none of the friction on this subject has become public property there have been instances within the past couple of months that showed there was at least a lack of entire sympathy and harmony between the representatives of the Automobile Club of America and those of the up-State clubs that have gathered in Albany at hearings on proposed measures regulating motor vehicle in different respects. As a matter of fact there have been other instances in past years when the club's representatives and the spokesmen for the interior clubs have disagreed totally and openly upon certain automobile measures that have been intro duced at Albany.

When it is remembered that more than one-half of the automobiles in New York State are owned by residents of New York city or the immediate vicinity, the justice of an arrangement which gave to the Automobile Club of America one vote in about forty on questions of policy toward pro-posed motor vehicle legislation was not of a kind that appealed to the pioneer automobile organization on this continent.

President Hoyt declared yesterday that the poard of governors of the club had long been of the opinion that no automobile club, no matter how large its membership might be. should be required to pay more than $500 in yearly dues to the State association. Mr. Hoyt said he could not understand just why the Automobile Club of Buffalo was reported as being anxious to have the constitution of the State assoication amended so that every club would be required to pay dues upon its full membership, as the Buffalo Club had also had the benefit of the $500 rule, even though it claims a total membership of about At the time this rule was made, more than a year ago, the Automobile Club of America had insisted that the amendment then made should be so worded as to include every club in the State association which might have more than 500 members, as the Automobile Club of America certainly did not have to ask any favors of any one.

The club's headquarters and garage in Fifty-fourth street west of Broadway represent a total outlay of $820,000. Of this amount the club provided $170,000, a first mortgage at 4% per cent. provided $350,000 and $300,000 was raised among members by the sale of per cent, second mortgage bonds. The organization has been in its new home only ine months, but has already paid off $40,000 of its second mortgage bonds, thus reducing ts fixed charges by $1,600. There are now about 300 cars of members in the club garage, with a large waiting list of additional applications. Its active membership limit ,250 and there are 1,237 active members at the present time, in addition to 30 life and 279 associate members.

Automobile Association, said yesterday that the A. A. A. is now composed of twenty-one State organizations, with an application in from the twenty-second fState, and is rep-resented by plubs in almost every State where motoring is general.

The delegates at the annual meeting of the New York State Automobile Association in Buffalo on Thursday adopted a resolution favoring the bill prepared by the highway commissioners imposing a tax of $2 per 1.00 pounds on automobiles. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Oliver A. Quayle, Albany Automobile Club; vice-president, Charles Jerome I-dwards, Long Island Automobile Club, Brooklyn: treasurer, Norman M. Pierce, Automobile Club of Buffalo: secretary, Chauncey D. Hakes, Albany Automobile Club.

The year book will be distributed free of cost to all members of the club and to the subscribers to the bureau of tours, the new class of associate members just authorized by the board of governors; it is expected this class will class will run up in the thousands."

The examination which is being given by the highway coumissioners and supervisors of the State to the changes proposed by the joint commission in the New York highway law is bringing to the surface amendments of value toward making the proposed statute more workable when it is enacted into law. The general purpose of the bill meets with open expressions of approval. The classification of the roads of the State into State roads and the designation of approximately 4 per cent. of these highways to each county, connecting "villages and cities with through transportation routes, and the building of these roads entirely at the expense of the State is deemed equitable in the distribution and satisfactory in their method of payment. The State roads being once designated by the State, this leaves the next most important roads as heretofore or hereafter designated by the counties to be improved in the same order that they would have been improved under the old statute. This enables county work to be done on roads of lesser importance at the same time that the State is improving the roads of greater importance. The continuance of State aid to the county and town roads, as heretofore, meets general approval. The creation of a department to be managed independent of politics to have sole charge of the maintenance of the highways when once built is another source of great satisfaction. The examination which is being given by was degun yesterday morning, when ten Americans were pitted against an equal number of Britishers for possession of the Sir George Newnes silver trophy, now held by the Britishers. Of these games nine were contested by cable, while one, that on the sixth hoard, was played over the board in

When hostilities ceased for the day shortly after 6:30 the Americans were very confident of winning the match, in spite of the fact that quite a number of substitutes had to be placed on the team, the principals, such as Marshall, Showalter, Barry and Fox, being unable for some reason or another to assist the Brooklyn Chess Club, under the auspices of which organization this end of the match was played.

The Bostonian John F. Barry never got his invitation to play in the match, the letter being addressed to Brooklyn instead of to Boston. Marshall was detained on the Continent. Showalter sent word that he could not get away from Georgetown, Ky., while Fox was detained by urgent business at Washington, D. C. Their places were taken by Stadelmann, the champion of the Frank-In Chess Club, Philadelphia: G. J. Schwietzer and E. W. Libaire of the Brooklyn Chese Club.

The match was played at the Brooklyn Chess Club, 4 Court Square, Brooklyn, and at the Hotel Savoy, under the auspices of the City of London Chess Club, at London. Quite a late start was made. After the usual exchange of courtesies the names of the teams were sent by cable and the players faced each other as follows:

The confidence of the American team

The confidence of the American team seems to be warranted by the fact that they have very strong positions on boards ?. 3 and 4, while with the exception of the eighth and tenth games positions are otherwise have very strong positions on boards 2, 2 and 4, while with the exception of the eighth and tenth games positions are otherwise even. On the eighth board the Englishman Michell has ventured upon a startling combination, but it is likely that his opponent Wolbrecht, will pull out all right. On the tenth board the American is a pawn to the bad.

On board I Blackburne and Hodges engaged in an interesting fight, and while the position is even it is replete with possibilities for ingenious surprises on both sides. Thirtyone moves were recorded.

Voigt has apparently the better of Atkins, and the Philadelphian expressed himself as being certain to win the game eventually. Thirty-two moves were made.

Helms gave up a rook for a bishop and two pawns, a very profitable bargain. This game was adjourned after twenty-eight moves. On the fourth board Delmar has two passed pawns on the queen's side and Richmond has two united pawes in the centre. The chances are in favor of Delmar. Twenty-five moves were made. After twenty-two moves the game between England and Schietzer was adjourned in a well balanced position.

The eighth game was adjourned after

The eighth game was adjourned after twenty-five moves, and the ninth game, which is perfectly even, was adjourned after twenty-eight moves. Twenty-nine moves were recorded up to the adjournment in the tenth game. The Howell-Ward game

Play will be resumed this morning at 9:30, time to be called at 6:30 P. M., with an adjournment at 2 o'clock for one hour. Judging from the positions of the games it expected that all the games will be finished on time.

Best of the World. A Ball-Bearing Car

The Steams ball-bearing, 4-cylinder engine is capable of the greatest efficiency. All motorists are familiar with the feats

The great speed and power of Stearns cars is due in a large measure to this free use of the highest grade imported D. W. F. ball-bearings. Properly tempered chrome nickel steel only is used in making the transmission gears and shafts. Ball-bearings are used in the transmission, the outer end of the sprocket shaft being similarly equipped. The free use of these bearings in the clutch mechanism results in an increased ease of operation and smoothness of engagement. The clutch takes hold so easily that the car will start on any of the 4 speeds without the slightest jerk.

bia crew management to abandon the Harlem as training quarters. A meeting was held yesterday by the rowing club at which permission was given the manager to sell the present boathouse on the Harlem at Dyckman street and to buy the barge which is to be used as a boathouse across the Hudson. The final arrangements for this change were practically completed last week and all that was needed was the formal ratification by the rowing club. The minimum silling price for the charlem boathouse is fixed at $500. This building was formerly owned by the Lone Star club and was bought by Columbia five years ago after several unsuccessful seasons of practice on the east shore of the Hudson had been experienced.

None of the coaches liked to have the men train on the Harlem and constant efforts were made to have another trial of the Hudson off the Gould boathouse. Last year, however, when Rice took charge of Columbia's aquatic interests he suggested that the scene of training be shifted over to the west shore of the Hudson above Fort Lee. At first it was intended to move the Gould house across, but it was found that such a proceeding would be too expensive and in addition the building itself was not adapted for the proper storage of eight oared shells and oars. Now a large excursion barge has been procured, the bottom floor of which is to be fitted up for the storage of the boats, while the upper story will be used for baths and dressing rooms for the men.

The Blue and While crews will not have their first work on the water until a week from to-day, when Rice expects that all the floating itself will have left the river.
